SOME MODERN CASSANDRAS

ONR esteemed contemporary, like the Gazette, has seen fit to deplore the imminence of labor troubles in this state.

Where are any labor troubles expected? What kind of troubles do the republican papers of this state want? Is it possible they have been guilty of attempting to stir up trouble in order that Jim Mitchell may be given a chance to declare his sympathies?

Where in Nevada today is trouble brewing, and why do these papers continue to refer by innuendo to the Colorado and Idaho cases?

Anne, of Austria, declared once, when her courtiers hinted at a rebellion where none existed, "trouble exists only in those who think of trouble."

In other words, "Target B." "The Many Sided Executive" cannot be beaten by any such cunning conjury of words and phrases and the only reason we complain is because such expressions create impressions that neither the republicans nor the democrats want to become current.

As to the Goldfield matter of last summer, that trouble was settled and was settled by the aid of Governor Sparks, for which both mine owners and workmen in that camp are grateful as they will show November 6th.
